MISS HOLT AND MR. HARRY MURRAY ARE WED.

MR. AND MRS. HARRY E. MURRAY.

Beneath an arch of pampas grass plumes Miss Helen Holt and Mr. Harry Edward Murray were married last evening in St. Andrew's Cathedral by the Rev. Mr. Simpson, in the presence of an audience of friends which more than filled the church.

It was a pretty ceremony which united the young couple in the holy bonds of wedlock, the cathedral interior being made attractive by the decorations of the church interior. The chancel rail was covered with greenery, the pulpit and lectern being hidden beneath palm branches. The gate through the chancel rail was marked by towering plumes of pampas grass, which, falling over the entrance, formed a pretty arch.

Shortly after 8:15 o'clock to the strains of a wedding march played by Prof. Gerard Barton the bridal procession filed into the church and up the main aisle. First came a dozen pretty young maids from St. Andrew's Priory, all dressed in white and wearing white veils. Following them came the vested choir of St. Andrew's. Then came the bridesmaid, Miss Mary Chillingworth, looking handsome in a gown of blue pineapple silk over blue taffeta. Leaning upon the arm of her father, Mr.
John D. Holt, came the bride, beautiful in an exquisite gown of white pineapple silk over white Duchesse silk, the bertha of the bodice trimmed with real lace. Her veil was caught in the coif-ure with a spray of orange blossoms.

At the chancel steps the bridal party was met by the groom and his best man, Secretary of the Territory A. L.
C. Atkinson. The minister greeted the party at the steps, and in the simple, yet impressive service of the Episcopal church, made the couple man and wife, Mr. John D. Holt, father of the bride, giving his daughter away in marriage.
The more serious part of the service was read at the gateway to the altar before which the bride and groom kneeled.

Following this the party proceeded to the vestry where their names were inscribed on the register, and on finishing this duty the organ pealed forth again in the glad refrain of the Men-delsohn Wedding March, the party passing out of the church to carriages in waiting in which they were whirled to the Holt residence just off upper Fort street.

In the parlor of the home the couple received their friends. Malle and tarleton formed a pretty canopy beneath which the bride and groom, assisted by the bridesmaid and groomsmen received.

A large number of beautiful presents were displayed in the dining room.
There were a number of cut glass bowls, sets of solid silver, glassware, paintings and household utensils. One of the largest sets was from about fifty of Mr. Murray's friends in the Honolulu lodge of Elks. This was a handsome case containing a complete set of silver marked with the initials of the bride.

The Ellis quintette club played sweetly on the lanai while the guests, after congratulating the couple, repaired to the lawn where a tent was erected. Beneath this were small tables, at which light refreshments were served. In another smaller tent there were liquid refreshments, where the groom in person was toasted to the refrain.

"Poor Old Harry,
"He's a Good Old Fellow."

The bride is a popular member of her social set. The groom is one of the best known of the local lodge of Elks, a staunch Republican, and was the candidate for County Clerk who ran on the Republican ticket last year and was elected by a good majority.

AMATEURS TONIGHT

Charley's Aunt at the Opera House.

After many delays, the long expected and looked forward to performance of "Charley's Aunt" takes place this evening at the Opera House after elaborate and numerous rehearsals. The play, which is to be given twice, is for the benefit of the Hawaii Yacht Club.

The directors of that institution held a meeting yesterday morning to consider the practicability of postponing the play out of respect to the memory of the late S. E. Damron, a member of their organization. In view of the fact that the play has already been postponed, that another change would upset the plans of the many who have bought seats and that the players could not be got together next week, the directorate concluded that the matter had gone beyond their jurisdiction. The contemplated decoration of the house with gay bunting has however been given up.

The presentation tonight should prove a notable one, the cast being a brilliant one, the play vastly amusing while rehearsals have shown absolute smoothness as the result of lengthy preparation.

Kaaf's orchestra handles the musical end of the program the leader himself contributing an interpolated solo number. Seats have sold well and there should be a crowded house tonight to gladden the players and the Yacht club treasurer.

The play dwells on the masquerading of a young collegian as the aunt of one of his chums to aid lover's plans. The disastrous arrival of the real aunt complicates matters and gives rise to many ludicrously funny situations.

One feature of tonight's entertainment will be the stage setting which are to be most elaborate. The cast is as follows:

Stephen Spettigue... Harry D. Couzens
Sir Francis Chesney... M. H. Webb
Jack Chesney... W. L. Warren
Charley Wychem... A. S. Brown
Lord Fancourt Babberly... Allan Dunn Brassett... P. J. Harwood Donna Lucia D'Alvadoles...
Miss Gertrude Hall
Kitty Verdun... Mrs. E. M. Boyd
Amy Spettigue... Miss Gladys Fisher

MUTILATED BODY FOUND IN KOOLAU

The rumor that the body of a Japanese had been found near Waimanalo, which was published exclusively in Tuesday's Advertiser, has been confirmed. The remains were found in a little stream near the government road, and about three miles beyond the Paoli.
Only the legs and the lower portion of the body were found. On the remains was a pair of black trousers and a pair of good shoes.

The body is almost entirely decomposed. It is thought that it may be the remains of a Japanese gambler who operated in the Koolau district recently. It may be that he was waylaid by one of the men he had fleeced. The body was first seen September 16.
